THURSDAY AFTERNOON, JULY 17.

A TRUE BILL! The Grand Jury of Wash ington county has this morning presented George A. Gardiner and John C. Gardiner for We yesterday intimated that the Jury would see things in a clear light; and so will the people before all is over.

WHAT AMERICANS GET FOR HAVING THEIR EXHIBITION IN LONDON, INSTEAD OF WASHING-TON !- One half the money which the London show has cost the contributors and visiters from this country would have sufficed for the production of a magnificent national exhibition at the Federal metropolis, and to bring one hundred thousand producers and consumer together, to the great advantage of both. Had this independent policy been pursued, our citizens would have been spared the mortification of being sneered at by the London Times, before the representatives of all Europe, after the following fashion :

"If the Americans do excite a smile, it is by their pretensions. Whenever they come out of their own province of rugged utility, and enter into competition with European elegance, they certainly do make themselves ridiculous. Their furniture is grotesque; their carriages and harness are gingerbread; their carpets are tawdry; their carpets are tawdry; their carpets are tawdry; patchwork quilts surpass even the invariable ugliness of this fabric; their cut glass is clumsy; their pianes sound of nothing but iron and wood; their book-binding is that of a journey-man working on his own account in an English market-town; their daguerreotypes are the sternest and gloomiest of all daguerreotypes; their printed calicoes are such as our house-maids would not think it respectable to wear. Even their ingenuity, great as it is, becomes ridiculous when it attempts competition with Europe. Double pianos, a combination of a piano and a violin, a chair with a cigar-case in its back, and other mongrel constructions belonging to a people that would be centaurs and mermen if they could, and are always rebelling against the trammels of unity."

At least four thousand Americans, at an average personal expense of $750 each, have visited London to be laughed at, and insultingly told by the organ of the British aristocracy, that "they would be centaurs and mermen if they could." When republicans betray such an overweening desire to worship at the shrine of royalty, we are glad to see surly John Bull put his horns into their flesh, and gore them till they become a little more American and patriotic in their sympathies. Many a citizen of this Republic has contributed from one to two thousand dollars, to promote a scheme designed to benefit English trade and manufactures, who would not give a dollar to assist American mechanics and agriculturists to get up a grand National Fair in their own country.

"THE TRAVELING CABINET."-In John Quincy Adams's time, the foregoing term of reproach, though not then justly applied, did much to wards heaping odium upon and causing unpopularity to attach to the then existing Adminis tration. But the present Cabinet seems to be the traveling one par excellence. Notwithstanding the President and four members of his Cabinet were recently absent, at the North, for some weeks, and, more recently, the President and three members of his Cabinet were absent for about a week in Virginia, we now find four members of the Cabinet off againnamely, Messrs. Webster, Crittenden, Corwin, and Hall. Have a care, gentlemen Cabinet Ministers, how you triffe with and diminish the popularity of the party through whose strength and power you climbed to your present eminence. The Whig newspapers and public speakers will find it an uphill business to defend you, in the next Presidential campaign, from the well-aimed blows of the Democracy on this subject. We pray you to hear the admonition of those who, though not your partizans, yet wish you to so act in your high offices as to

Notes on New Mexico.-Those who have read the former part of these Notes in the Saturday News, will be pleased to perceive our resuming their publication in the American Telegraph; and those who have not will scarcely derive less pleasure-for the connexion of the present with the former numbers is not essential to a right appreciation of the narrative and its incidents.

That facts or opinions, or both, may be expressed in these numbers, in which our readers may not concur or confide, is possible; and we desire to have no misapprehensions on the subject. The author's name is over his productions, and he is responsible for what he writes.

A very strange country is here described, and its religious institutions are all of one kind. Were there other kinds, we think they would be found corrupt; but there is only one, and that is corrupt—so corrupt that we marvei much that, as our political institutions are carried to that country, an effort is not also made to extend the authority of the Roman Catholic church of the United States over it. Such a move would accord with the views of the people of this country generally, and would result in profit to the whole people of New Mexico. It is New Mexico, however, and not the Roman Catholic church, nor any church, that is treated of; and if aught that is unpleasant to any reader shall incidentally fall in the way we shall regret it, but cannot therefore exclude the articles from our columns, for it would be impossible to write of the country in question and not make allusion at times to its ecclesiastical institutions. These, however, we are assured by the writer, will never be made in a spirit of disrespect toward the Roman Catholics of this country, nor with a desire to prejudice the church to which they are attached.

Two Trips!-The steamer Thomas Collyer will depart for Mount Vernon at ten o'clock to-morrow morning, and a pleasant trip may be

The Collyer will also depart at seven in the evening, with the Marine Band on board, and make a delightful Moonlight Excursion.

To Correspondents. - Upon examination, this morning, we find we have a number of communications worthy of publication, but without vouchers for their authenticity.

DANIEL WEBSTER'S WORKS, IN SEVEN VOL-UNES.—A Boston correspondent of the New York Express writes as follows:

York Express writes as follows:

"I have seen to-day the first volume of the miscellaneous speeches of Mr. Webster, as edited by Mr. Everett, and now in the course of publication by Littell & Brown, of Cambridge. The first two volumes, of five or six hundred pages each, are printed, and are to be followed by three volumes of Mr. Webster's speeches in Congress, and these again by three volumes of divlowette correspondence, and other matter. matic correspondence, and other matter. All these volumes are accompanied by notes, some by Mr. Webster and some by Mr. Everett;

These volumes will live as long as our country or the English language shall live, and they will ever be regarded as the majestic products of a giant mind. Daniel Webster's is, in our opinion, the greatest intellect of the age in which he lives, and his speeches breathe forth patriotism as ardent and elevated as ever aspired the breast of man. The higher attributes of humanity, such as manifest man's Music. noble origin and destiny, mark all his intellectual emanations. The baser propensities, such as most strongly identify him with the creatures of time and sense, characterize the motives and actions of his life. Proud, ambitious, eminently aristocratic, selfish, ungrateful-haughty and arrogant, yet poor and stipendiary-he is admired by many, yet loved by few. At his fall there will be tears shed, yet only such as are wept when the giant oak of ages is stricken to the boys; and D. Ratcliffe, esq., of Washington, man skill is overthrown. Departed greatness, and power, and grace, and beauty, will be mourned; but the soul of sensibility and the heart of sympathetic pulsations will be remem bered never, never.

PUBLIC PARKS.-In Boston, Philadelphia. and Baltimore, great efforts are being made to extend these most desirable city adornments. The day will come in which the "magnificence of our distances will not be so great a wonder, and in which the wish will be breathed that and promenades. We think that at this very moment grounds should be purchased beyond our city limits and converted into gardens, from which the expenses might be defrayed, and beautiful trees at the same time cultivated Craig. for which the children of the present day will yet be thankful. The expansion of the city within twenty-five years to come will be such as few men are now prepared to contemplate. Whether the corporation, the General Government, or individuals, shall make these purchases and improvements, the investments will prove wise, and great public benefits will result.

Political Proscription.

"I have not looked whether a man was Whig or Democrat—when he was honest, capable and faithful, I have retained him without reference to his political principles."

[Mr. Secretary Stuart at Richmon

We well remember that this was the avowed policy of the Administration of the second Adams; that it was proclaimed in a beautiful etter written by the then Secretary of State, Mr. Clay; and we believe that Administration-one of the best our country has ever seen !- acted upon this policy or principle. Whether it is or is not the most politic course of action for political aspirants to observe, is altogether another

In the present instance the Democratic party has no right to find fault with the rule Mr. Stuart has laid down for himself. Although it is worthy their study and emulation, they are by no means bound to follow it, but may, as did their great leader in 1829, turn out of office cause the people to applaud and sanction your But that there is somewhat of a likelihood of its ties will thus be saved, and peace and morality altogether probable. Still none can be sure. and Mr. Stuart is entirely too conscientious man to act, like Iago, "as if for surety."

The Whigs are supposed to have some inter est in the matter; and we know many of the more enlightened among them who approve the declaration of Mr. Stuart. This is highly honorable to them, and it shows very plainly that they are moved by a more exalted sentimen than mere selfishness, and that they posses a magnanimity the mere partizan has never known. While such men, such principles, and such notives are found to influence the government of our national affairs, we need never despair of the Republic-unless indeed the re-election of these men might possibly be thus put in jeopardy! And yet that wicked curse rises to emembrance—that curse of Queen Margaret, who said to the Duke of Gloster-

"Thy friends suspect for traitors whilst thou liv'st, And take deep traitors for thy dearest friends!"

That Mr. Stuart is destined to realize the neaning of this malediction in its bitterest significance, is as sure as that he shall ever leave the post he now adorns. We profess to be neither oracular nor prophetic, but can judge with tolerable accuracy the effects of certain causes : AND HERE WE KNOW THE CAUSES HAVE EXISTENCE! We shall see.

PENNSYLVANIA.-The canvass for Governor. &c., is progressing with much warmth. The newspapers are violent; and what harsh language they do use! Each day's issue would be sufficient, "down South," to call forth the bowie knives. Next to the latter, we think the coarse language so common in the Keystone State deserves to be censured.

THE ART OF FLYING .- A French journal has letter from Madrid giving an account of a successful experiment with a new apparatus for flying. The flyer was a Miss Juanita Perez, who, though rather fat and corpulent, moved through the air, by the help of wings, with great case and rapidity. She was advertised to fly a distance of above twelve hundred feet, rising in the air above six hundred, but exceeded the programme both in height and distance. No description of the structure of the wings is given. They have a spread of some fifteen feet, are fastened by ligaments of great flexibility, and arranged so as to move with great rapidity; they make a noise like a windmill. The astonishment of Madrid at so novel a phenomenon is described as immense.

town School came of yesterday afterneon. The large school-room was crowded with an intelligent audience. The examination and exhibi-tion were such as to give universal satisfaction.

The following is the order of exercises:

Music. Lafayette, by Charles Smith; The American Eagle, by James Calhoun; Bozzaris, by George Harrison; The Powers of Man, by John Burrows; Jack the Seaman, a Dialogue, by Columbus Thomas and Charles Smith. Musome by Mr. Webster and some by Mr. Everett; and they will make a work alike creditable to the politics, the literature, and the history of the Government, during the thirty-five or forty years in which Mr. Webster has been in public life. These seven volumes will be published at the same time, and probably at about the close Music. The Fall of Vera Cruz, by Columbus with the close of the way. Thomas; James Otis, by Wm. Jackson; Caractacus, by George Eberly; The Child and the Eagle, by Charles Wilson; The Blind Boy, by H. C. Craig; On the Protest, by Philip Craig; Paul Pry, a Dialogue, by Wm. Jackson, James H. Burns, James Calhoun, and Philip Craig; Decalogue, by Philip Craig. Music. Address by John T. Bangs, esq. Music. Distribution of Premiums, by H. Addison, esq., Mayor.

The first five premiums, handsomely bound volumes, were awarded to Charles Wilson, Geo. Harrison, Columbus Thomas, Chas. Smith, and James Calhoun. The handsome donation of W. W. Corcoran, esq., of one hundred dollars, was awarded to Philip Craig, Hamilton Moreland, William Jackson, and James H. Burns; and a handsome medal was presented to Mr. in the true spirit of philanthropy, authorized Mr. Craig to have another silver medal struck and presented to another of his boys; and the four boys who received the one hundred dollars presented four of their classmates with a handsome heavy silver pencil each: James H. Burns to James Calhoun; Wm. Jackson to Charles Smith; H. Moreland to Columbus Thomas, and P. Craig to T. Wilson.

After the exercises were over, the boys, to the number of one hundred and fifty, marched in procession, headed by the teachers, Messrs still greater space had been allowed for parks Craig and Burns, to the Mayor's office, where after giving three cheers for him, the President, &c., and three for the Board of Guardians and the Councils of the town, they were dismissed with some wholesome advice from Mr.

> CHEAP POSTAGE .- A writer to the New York Tribune says: "I am a Whig and a Baptist, and constant reader of the New York Tribune and he New York Recorder. I wish to ask you on what principle of reduction subscribers at Auburn pay two cents a quarter more now than they did under the old postal arrangement. As far as newspapers at least are concerned. I feel. for one, that the new arrangement is an exceedingly odious one. Many poor people take one, two, and sometimes three weekly papers, and yet perhaps do not receive a letter once a year; to such the reduced rates will not be very acceptable."

> THE "GOLDEN GATE."-It has been suggested o us that the name of the new ocean steamer that recently came from New York to Annapolis to give the President and his Cabinet an excursion, and then to take Mr. Webster and Mr. Hall, of the Cabinet, to New York, free of charge, ought to be changed to the "GOLDEN BAIT." At all events the bait took, and gudgeons were caught. When the millionaires build their next steamer, would it not be proper to call her the "TREASURY GATE?" Names signify things sometimes very properly.

SAVINGS TO THE CORPORATION OF WASHING-TON .- Introduce the Fire Annihilator, Free every one of the enemy who has not great Bath-houses, and a House of Refuge; and permerits, and still greater friends, to keep him in. mit no intoxicating drinks to be sold within the That they will do so we by no means assert; for city limits. Half the present losses in conflagra-"the times change, and men change with them." tions, disease, criminal prosecutions and charill profit a hundred-fold

DEADLY WEAPONS .- We notice a paragraph ondemnatory of bearing these in the Richmone Republican. We would recommend the enforcement of a fine in this city for it. Either the dangerous practice might be suppressed, or the revenues of the city improved. A fine of ten dollars and the forfeiture of the weapon would be sufficient. The first effect would be to disarm fools and rowdies, and then more prudent men would not imagine any need for them.

We are indebted to Mr. FRANCE TAYLOR for opy of the North American Review, for July, 1851. Its subjects are twelve in number, and from the cursory glance we have given them invite to a closer acquaintance. This work should be more extensively known to American

MR. STUART'S CHAMPION, "T."-I will endeavor to despatch all that is entitled to notice in the first communication of Mr. "T." in short order. All the charges I formerly made were true. They have not been and cannot be disproved.

One of them was, that the President and Mr. Stuart had desired to get rid of the Commissioner of Patents, and yet neglected to remove him, because it would visit upon them the wrath of Seward, Weed, and Greeley.

"T." says if this be true, it is highly dishonorable to the Chief Magistrate and Mr. Stuart. That they did wish to get rid of the Commissioner, is proved by the fact that they decided upon superseding him, and caused the appointment to be made out for Mr. Curtis, of ston, to take his place. Mr. Curtis declined the appointment. That they still keep Mr. Ewbank in place, knowing that he is powerfully backed up by Seward, Weed and Greeley, while there are on file nine sets of grave and imposing charges against his official conduct, and while he has persisted in disobeying the President's special request, that the salary of the Agricul-tural clerk should be increased to $2,000, ought to be proof sufficient, to any fair mind, that dread of the wrath of Seward, Weed and Greeley, freshly uncorked, keeps the President and Mr. Stuart from forthwith removing the Commissioner of Patents. So much for that

"T." says Mr. Stuart "is a growing man." Very well. So was another Virginia gentle-man, in the Cabinet of General Taylor. Where is he now? Where is that other growing gen-tleman in the same Cabinet, who was from Georgia?

"T." says of Mr. Stuart, "it is true he was rejected as a candidate for the present convention," and accounts for his rejection by the peo tion," and accounts for his rejection by the peo-ple of his vicinage, upon the ground that he was opposed to the election of judges by the people. That is, that Mr. Stuart does not believe the people enlightened enough to elect judges! Mr. Stuart may yet see cause to cry out, "Oh, save me from the defence of such a friend!"

But, continues "T.," "that his defeat was not dishonorable, his immediate appointment as Secretary of the Interior by the Executive and unanimous Senate is some proof."

Recollect that, at about that time, the office of Secretary of the Interior was going a beg-ging. It had been offered to Mr. Bates, of Missouri, and rejected; to Mr. Geyer, of Missouri, and rejected; to Mr. Hopkins, of Alabama, and rejected; to Mr. Jenkins, of Georgia, and reected: that is, either the War or Interior Department had been offered to all these gentlemen, and by them all rejected. The Interior Department was then offered to Mr. McKennan, of Pennsylvania, who accepted it; but who, after filling the post a few days, and finding Mr. Webster claiming, as Secretary of State, a portion of the Interior Department's patronage, threw up his commission and went home to Pennsylvania. That pure, noble, high-minded man, and true Whig, would not submit to such a bamboozle, as Colonel Benton might style it. In this state of affairs, Mr. Stuart, the defeated candidate for the Virginia State Convention, was hunted up and found to be quite willing to accept the Interior Department, shorn owever much it might be of its patronage by the grasping ambition of the Secretary of State. trials to get a Secretary of the Interior, was a mere act of courtesy. Almost anybody, "grow-ing" or not, would have been confirmed, under the circumstances.

"T." exclaims, "Let not Commentator hurl

hireling' in my teeth: I do not speak by authority. This, I take it, is meant to convey to the This, I take it, is meant to convey to the public the impression that "T." is not an office-holder and a Government stipendiary. I suspect he is practising deception in this matter, and I therefore call upon him to come forth with the truth, and say distinctly whether he is not a Government office-holder. If it shall appear that he has practised deception in this natter, then I shall not be too good to suspect him of being ready, at any time, to support and whitewash any administration that will give him or keep him in a place.

Mr. Stockbridge of the Fountain Hotel, Light street, Baltimore.

Dear Sin: Being on the point of leaving the city, I avail myself of a few idle moments to thank you kindly for the medicine you sent me, and which has restored me to the use of my limbs. I beg you to send me four bottles more, to carry on my voyage. Since I had the fortune to use Dr. Hampton's Vegetable Tincture my confidence is so strong that, in gratitude to the proprietors of said medicine, I beg you to present my respects to them, and induce them to make it more publicly known as a sure Rheumatic cure. Having called on me on the 19th of April last, and seen me prostrated on my bed, useless in all my limbs, you can appreciate nearly as well as myself the prompt relief I received from Dr. Hampton's Tincture, and I am positive had it not been for your strong and forcible recommendations I should still have been in bed.

Tincture, and I am positive had it not been for your strong and forcible recommendations I should still have been in bed.

It is really a pity this specific should not be approved by medical men, and like all patent drugs it should suffer the imputation the public generally give to such preparations. I myself, who was always opposed to a patented specific, took this medicine with reluctance, and without confidence in it, and it was only through your disinterest-ed, friendly recommendations, and my critical situation, that induced me to try this really beneficial Vegetable Tincture.

that induced me to try this really beneficial Vegetable Tincture.

You may inform Messrs. Mortimer & Mowbray that they are at liberty to make use of my name in the support of the good effects of Dr. Hampton's Vegetable Tincture, as it has cured me, in five weeks, of a chronic Infommatory Rheumatism, contracted under tropical climates, and of seven years' periodical duration. I have only used three bottles, and find that even the deformed parte of my hands are fast returning to their former natural appearance.

I have been under the treatment of several physicians in London and Paris, without any apparent benefit; also, while in New York, having tried the Thompsonian and Homeepathic remedies, after having been tormented with galvanic batteries, cold and aromatic baths, and hundreds of internal and external medicines, all to no effect. I am, so far, cured by this Hampton's Vegetable Tincture only. Therefore, my dear sir, accept of the assurance of my gratitude, and believe me your well-wisher.

WONDERFUL CURE OF HEREDITARY SCROFULA!
This certificate is from the pen of a gentleman whose name appears on the journal of Congress—one who is extensively and favorably known:
It affords me pleasure to state that Dr. Jesse Hampton's Tincture has effected a most extraordinary cure of my slave boy Albert. The patient was three years old, and had the Scrofuls—(his father is scrofulous.) The boy was a moving mass of sores from head to foot; the upper lids of the eyes were much swollen, and turned inside out, exhibiting horrible mattering ulcers, that protruded over the eye-ball so as to produce blindness. It is strange, yet true, this child—that I felt resigned to see die as a relief from suffering—has been restored to health under the treatment of Dr. Hampton.
